Bullying Prevention Workshop

The Orange County Department of Education offers a two-hour bullying prevention workshop for middle school leadership groups and clubs. This workshop empowers student leaders to become upstanders by teaching them to identify bullying, understand its effects, and take action through standing up, speaking out, and spreading support. Participants will discuss campus bullying issues and develop strategies for their leadership group to prevent bullying.

- This workshop is available at no cost for middle schools in Orange County.
- A minimum of 10 students are required.
- The school site will need to provide a space for the workshop.
